Applicant(s)

Applicants' scientific and innovation-based competence:

- Please rate the applicants' level of scientific and innovation-based competence as well as the relevant skills needed to successfully complete the project (e.g. managerial and entrepreneurial skills as well as in-depth understanding of the topic).
- If the project is proposed by more than one applicant: do the applicants complement each other in their competences? Does a collaboration deliver a clear added value (e.g. are interactions between basic and applied research facilitated, is the organization of the consortium clearly defined)?

Project

Scientific content

- Are the project’s scientific objectives of high quality and realistic? Do they address relevant needs (e.g. societal, technological, environmental, economic)? Do they provide a clear added value with respect to the current state of the art?
- Are the proposed methods suitable, clearly defined and relevant to the objectives?

Originality and innovative potential

- Is the project original and topical?
- Does the project present a credible vision of the potential impact and benefit of the innovation?
- How do you rate the market potential or the value creation of the project? Is it competitive?

Funding conditions

Funding

Are the requested budget and duration of the project realistic? If applicable (applicants from Universities of Applied Sciences and the CSEM): are the requested salary complements justified?

Conditions can be set in case the application reveals minor problems that do not take a major effort to resolve (e.g. special personnel condition, access to infrastructure). Major budget problems should result in a lower rating.
